Pertinent Paragraphs

Supervisors Meeting—The board of supervisors will meet this morning to complete the work of their November session.

Ladies Aid Meeting—The Kahului Ladies Aid Society will meet in the Kahului Community House at 2:30 p. m., Tuesday, November 15.

Will Get Road—Acting on a petition received from Molokai the board of supervisors yesterday authorized the road supervisor to open the road asked for from the main road to the cemetery near Kapaakea.

Roads and Trails—Questions connected with continuing maintenance and upkeep work of roads and trails cared for by the East Maui Ditch Co., will be taken up between the board of supervisors and W. F. Pogue tomorrow morning.

Bank's Birthday—The Bank of Maui is making plans for the celebration of its 20th birthday on November 26. The bank opened its doors for business for the first time 20 years ago. Open house will be held that day and there will be souvenirs for friends who may call.

Dramatic Recital—A dramatic recital to be given under the auspices of the educational department of the Maui Woman's Club will be held Saturday evening, December 3 in the Territorial building, Kahului at 8:15 p. m. A special feature will be the recital "Caesar and Cleopatra" by Professor Maude May Babcock who will also give many interesting interpretative lectures.

Allowances Reduced—The board of child welfare has reduced all allowances 20 percent, effective October 1, in line with plans for economies by the county. It saw its way to doing this because there have been decreases in the cost of living since the amounts of allowances up to October 1, were determined upon. The subject of continuing allowances where the beneficiary has property, other than a home, valued above $1500 is still under consideration.

Complaints of School—From the principal of Keanee school the board of supervisors has received a letter complaining of the condition of the school building. The letter says the building is on stilts which have badly in high winds or storms that some parents keep their children home. The letter also deals with eave troughs and water tank, teachers' cottage and other subjects and was referred to the county engineer with request to send carpenters when they could be made available from present work.

Cannery Furnishes Lights—Hauku Cannery offers to furnish lights for the teachers' cottage at Hauku school. A letter to the board of supervisors read Wednesday made the offer and asked the board to pay for the wiring of the cottage which it estimates at $25. The company will pay for the wire which it offers to string and also asks permission to put high power wires underground where needed for safety. The letter also deals with proposed road changes in the vicinity of the cannery and will be acted upon Saturday.

Lights Go Out—Owing to the blowing out of a transformer on a pole outside of the Hippodrome, Wednesday night the theater was left in darkness in the second reel of "The Woman God Changed" was being shown. Return checks were given to all the patrons as they filed out, such checks being good for a subsequent performance at the same theater. The picture will be shown at the Kahului on Saturday night. Manager Harris announces. This does not mean the return checks issued Wednesday night are good at that theater, however.

Books For Children—Grown-ups as well as children will take delight in the display of books for children and young folk at Maui Book Store. Certainly in the old days nothing so attractive was offered children. It is surprising to see a dozen handsome editions of such a "classic" as Mother Goose, several editions of the standard fairy tales including Arabian Nights and there are stories for those who are passing from childhood to the adult stage as well. It is a surprisingly large assortment that is offered in advance of the Christmas season.

Sale Proves Attractive—Many are taking advantage of the sale of men's furnishings and men and women's shoes at the store of George Soon in the Foresters' Building, Kahului. Especially is this noticeable in the evening. The goods offered have not been long in the store which has been open only a few months and they are of standard makes and brands. It differs in quality of goods from many sales that are put on with goods brought from the outside for the purposes of the sale only. All goods are plainly marked with old and new prices and there are no doubts of the mark down being just as indicated.

Domestic Servants Are Still Obtainable

PETROGRAD, Oct. 1—(Associated Press Mail.)—The impression abroad that there are no servants in Russia is an error. One gets a different impression in walking through the Kremlin where cooks and housemaids may be seen throwing water out of the windows of the various apartments where prominent officials of the government live.

And when one tries to hire a cook, he finds it is easy enough if a large enough salary and sufficient foodstuffs are offered. The cook in the leading cafe in Moscow is said to be getting 50,000 rubles a day and three square meals.

Tipping is also forbidden by decree, but waiters and other servants not only expect them, but frequently demand them and express a desire for sugar or other foodstuffs, rather than rubles.

Maui Women's Club

Prof. Maude May Babcock of the University of Utah had already become nationally famous before she came to spend a year in Hawaii. A very pleasing picture of her appears in the Pictorial Review for November, amongst the photographs of other well-known and progressive women. From all sides come words of praise of her and her work.

We are very fortunate in having the opportunity of hearing her in "Caesar and Cleopatra" on the evening of December 3rd, at the Territorial Building. As has been said before in these columns, this is a humorous reading, and none need hesitate about going to hear her—they will assuredly be well entertained. The High School has decided to avail itself of Prof. Babcock's services while on Maui, and has selected "Abraham Lincoln" one of Miss Babcock's best selections, to be given on an afternoon in the week following her evening appearance, the date to be announced later. It has been decided that the general public may attend this if they desire rather than keep it a strictly school entertainment.

HOME COMING RECEPTION

On Wednesday evening, the 16th, a reception will be held at the Alexander House Settlement residence, Wailuku, to greet Mr. and Mrs. Clinton S. Childs, who are returning this week from a honeymoon spent on Kauai. After the reception there will be dancing in the gymnasium. A very cordial invitation is extended to all Maui people and particularly to members of the Settlement Association to attend both reception and dance.

Saccharine Smuggling Is Common In Russia

MOSCOW, Oct. 10—(Associated Press Mail.)—Saccharine is the article most generally trafficked in here. As sugar sells on the markets for the equivalent of nearly $1 a pound, few persons can afford it. Saccharine is the universal sweetener. It is the pet article for smugglers.

Customs examiners are not able to check the illicit trade because of the ease with which millions and billions of rubles' worth of the sugar substitute can be concealed in luggage and on the person of smugglers. It comes across the Polish, Lithuanian, Lettish, Estonian and Finnish boundaries in great quantities. Rumanians also run it across the Bessarabian border.

On every street corner in Russian cities there are saccharine dealers soliciting buyers. Food shops and market stalls offer it everywhere. Boot-blacks sell it on street corners. Even cabdrivers deal in it. It is usually offered in capsules contained in small glass tubes which may be carried conveniently in a vest pocket.

It is not uncommon to encounter cultivated women and former army officers among the saccharine dealers. The tattered fragments of a decent wardrobe and cultivated speech indicate their past, when their feet were not shod in birch bark sandals.

Extending Gotham for Six Miles Seaward Is Daring Suggestion

NEW YORK, Nov. 3—(Associated Press Mail.)—New Yorkers who often pretend to be indifferent to the city's wonders have had their imagination stirred by the daring plan, recently announced, to extend Manhattan Island six miles down the bay by building mammoth sea walls from both sides of the Battery and filling in the intervening space with earth.

A company has been incorporated to carry out the project and T. Kenard Thompson, a prominent engineer of the city, has prepared the detailed plans. The Broadway Association, composed of merchants along the famous thoroughfare, has endorsed the idea.

If the plan is ever carried out, its proponents say that six square miles would be tacked on the most valuable piece of land on earth; that 12 miles of needed docks would be added to the port's facilities; that transit would be greatly improved and that the tax on all real estate might be reduced one per cent.

The plan has already been outlined to the War Department. Mr. Thompson says, and no objections have been raised, since the proposed built-up extension would still leave on either side of the island the same clearance for navigation that now exists on the Hudson and East river sides.

The work could be completed in five years, in Mr. Thompson's belief. "It is a well-known fact," he said, "that the business center of Manhattan is rapidly moving away from City Hall and if it is not prevented the lower end of the island will again become a residential district, with the result of tremendous decrease in values."

The only way to remedy this, he added, was to make City Hall the geographical center by extending Broadway some six miles down the bay.

Irrigation Seen As All Important

Hawaiian Homes Commission Visits Molokai and Returns Strongly In Favor of Putting Water on Lands.

Important irrigation projects on Molokai are regarded by members of the Hawaiian Homes commission to the success of rehabilitation on that island on an extensive scale, following their visit to Molokai. The Advertiser summarizes the conclusions reached, as follows:

There is land on Molokai "as fertile as any in the islands," in the opinion of agricultural experts who accompanied the Hawaiian Homes commission to the reservation of 37,000 acres on that island set aside by congress for the purpose of rehabilitating the Hawaiian race.

Of this acreage some 5000, given sufficient water, are susceptible of intensive development.

Of the 5000, perhaps two or three thousand are good pineapple land.

Without irrigation on an extensive scale, there is available for immediate development by wells and pumping some 200 acres which will bear rich crops of alfalfa.

To plant sugar cane on any large scale would necessitate bringing water by a system of tunnels and ditches from the windward side of the island. Such a system would be from 20 to 30 miles long and would run in figures of which, with the data now at hand, it is possible to speak only loosely in terms of millions.

These were the controlling facts brought back by the commission on its return from Molokai this week.

Small System No Good

George P. Cooke, executive secretary of the commission, said that, in his opinion, it would be a losing venture to build any irrigation system which promised to bring in less than 20, 30, 40 or 50 million gallons a day, taking into account the probable expenditure. In immediate sight from any one source was a maximum of 7,000,000 gallons a day, on the year-round average.

To obtain the quantity necessary to assure commercial success, it would be necessary to link up by lateral tunnels and ditches, connecting with and feeding the main tunnel and conduit through the backbone of the island, a number of streams in valleys which now pour forth upon the windward shore. Such an extensive and expensive system would be warranted only by a large area of possible cane land than was contained within the boundaries of the districts set aside for rehabilitation. In other words, it would be necessary to link up the rehabilitation project with commercial development by private capital.

No Survey Made

In the meantime, exact data is lacking. The boundaries of the reservation have not been surveyed, so that the commission does not know accurately what its holdings are or what are its water rights. To obtain this information will be the first step.

Delegate Kalaniana'ole and the Rev. Akaike Akana, the Hawaiian members of the commission, as also Senator John H. Wise, its publicity agent are strongly in favor of staking the whole rehabilitation project on development of an irrigation system. With water, they reason, the venture is a foregone success. Without water, it diminishes in importance proportionately to the arable area and the lessened production per acre, and might fade away and die out in gradual failure. Therefore, before any colonists are put on the land, they believe all the facts and possibilities that can be obtained or estimated ought to be made available and carefully weighed.

Fellow Who Works Is Now To Be Used To Advertise Goods

NEW YORK, Nov. 4—(Associated Press Mail.)—The farmer boy, the printers' devil and the work-a-day clerk are going to have their pictures on the billboards and magazine pages this winter. They will replace some of the swagger young men who have been posing several seasons for the artists hired by collar and clothes manufacturers. Not a few of these concerns have concluded that the orchid is not the flower of young American manhood, and they are going in for sunflowers.

They say the buying public doesn't like the pinkcheeked men who have been showing the readers of advertisements what to wear. They seemed to have nothing to do but watch polo ponies, indifferently peer at yachts in the cove or ignore the football players on the field below them in order to swap small talk with girls in vivid sweaters and sport skirts.

People began calling them pretty boys, cake eaters, lounge lizards, sissies. Humorists poked fun at them and the good old common people who bought most of the collars and suits said "If that's the kind of a face you have to have to be well dressed, I'll go through life a slouch."

But now they are going to show the public that one can be a regular everyday fellow with a job and still be smartly clothed. Last winter there was a warm discussion within the National Association of Retail Clothiers as to the public attitude toward the "pretty men" in advertisements. This fall the result of this discussion is apparent. Recently the new catalogue of a nationally known clothing house was published without a single ballroom scene, bridge party or clubhouse etching. Virile settings supplanted them.

There was a drawing of an old tar talking to two sturdy youths beside a ship, a freighter, it was, not a palatial passenger carrier. Another showed a well-dressed office worker working. He was within sound of a printing press. A third pictured a farmer dressed up for a trip into town. He bore a business-like mien and apparently was just giving some final instructions to the hired man on the tractor when the artist happened along.

Some concerns think it economy to send orders to Honolulu or to the mainland when they could be filled as well or better at home. They figure they save a few cents on the dollar by doing so and grasp at the nickel in sight.

BUT

Every dollar spent with Maui concerns passes from hand to hand, in wages, to the store, to the bank and out again into circulation, back to the concern that sent it out, again to be sent forth on its rounds. The profits accruing from the dollar kept in home circulation are many times larger than the small saving in the dollar sent away.
